History of KVCCU

In 1982, the Centralia Correctional Center Credit Union was chartered with just 19 people. The credit union moved from the Correctional Center and purchased its own building in Centralia in 1995. Many different Select Employee Groups were added over the years and in 2005, a community charter was granted allowing the credit union to serve anyone who lives or works in Marion, Clinton, Jefferson, and Washington counties.

These additions facilitated a name change to what it is today– Kaskaskia Valley Community Credit Union. As the Kaskaskia River runs through the area and has an effect, water shed, flooding or recreation, it is a common attribute to the four counties. KVCCU has a wide range of financial services available, all of which has been member directed over the years. Through the course of time Kaskaskia Valley Community Credit union has and continues to put our members first.
